MTA EDUCATION SEMINAR 2006

TECHNICAL ANALYSIS IN ACTION

$300 full rate for MTA, NYSSA, and STA members

The Market Technicians Association presents its annual Education Seminar on Thursday May 18 through Saturday May 20 in New York City. The conference venue is the American Management Associations' (AMA) state-of-the-art conference center at 48th Street and Broadway in Manhattan. The official hotel of the conference will be the Novotel Hotel at 52nd Street and Broadway, overlooking Times Square.

The seminar kicks off at noon on Thursday at Bloomberg's new corporate headquarters for our semi-annual market forecast panel. Moderated by Vincent Catalano, CFA the panel will feature John Kosar, CMT, Louise Yamada, CMT, Michael Kahn, and Gail Dudack, CMT. The panelists will provide their fearless forecasts for the performance of the capital markets in 2006 and beyond and engage in vigorous debate with each other and conference attendees. This event will be broadcast globally by Bloomberg but be sure to be there live for what promises to be a memorable event. Afterwards, conference attendees are invited to attend a behind-the-scenes tour of Bloomberg's new global broadcast and technology center including the ever popular free snack bar.

The afternoon continues downtown at the New York Stock Exchange where attendees will enter the member's area of the exchange and receive a behind the scenes tour. The tour will discuss the exchange's century-old history as the world's leading financial market and the role it plays today. Due to NYSE security procedures, attendance at this event is limited to the first 40 sign-ups only.

The afternoon continues a short distance from the NYSE on the floor of the New York Board of Trade for an exciting hands-on look at commodity trading in the sugar pits. Attendees will learn from actual traders after market hours right on the trading floor. Once you learn the hand signals, you will engage in a frenzied session of mock trading with other conference attendees and traders from the NYBOT.

Later on Thursday evening groups will form up at the Novotel Hotel's Broadway Bar and Terrace to break off with MTA guides from New York to experience New York's fabulous night life first hand. Take your pick: Greenwich Village, the Upper East Side, Midtown, Chinatown, Chelsea, SoHo, or any one of the city's other fabulous neighborhoods.

Kicking off on Friday morning at the American Management Association conference center, this year's seminar brings together some of the most notable technicians in the world, the authors of the textbooks which are required reading for the Chartered Market Technician program. Over two days the authors will thoroughly review the material covered in their books for the benefit of those who are enrolled in the CMT program and who want to learn directly from the authors, as well as for recent CMT program graduates who wish to meet and ask questions of the authors.

Simultaneously, the MTA will host two days of more advanced sessions for experienced technicians. On Friday, the MTA and the New York Society of Security Analysts (NYS-SA) host a day-long session on Technical Analysis in Portfolio Management. On Saturday, the MTA and the Security Traders Association (STA) host a day long session in which experienced, traders discuss how they utilize technicals to improve their trading performance.
